RANCHO CALIFORNIA WATER DISTRICT

Agricultural Irrigation Efficiency Program (AIEP)

The Rancho California Water District (RCWD) has developed the Agricultural Irrigation Efficiency Program (AIEP) for its agricultural customers. AIEP aims to provide technical and/or financial assistance for increasing water use efficiency within a specific customer class. Conservation programs are developed based on the idea that efficient water use and water savings in one customer class benefit all customers through approved District-wide water supply reliability. AIEP provides financial assistance to RCWD's "agricultural" and "ag/residential" customers for irrigation system equipment upgrades that may improve irrigation system performance. Participation in this Program will require pre- and post-site visits from RCWD and/or its consultant, Blue Watchdog Conservation, Inc. (Blue Watchdog/Consultant). Site visits aim to determine eligibility, evaluate the efficiency of irrigation equipment, and confirm that upgrades were installed correctly. The water consumption and irrigation data Rancho Water and Consultant collect may be shared with other agencies to improve the agricultural community; however, no personal identifying information from the Participant will be shared.
